Brief Description:

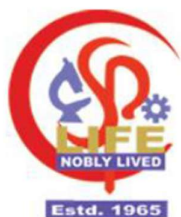

The Postgraduate Department of English conducted a workshop on research methodology titled "Literature Beyond Limits: A Workshop on Texts and Contexts" for the PG students on 18 December 2025 in the Daniel Hall. The programme began at 10.00 am and continued upto 12 pm with a brief discussion on final year project and the methodology in use. Ms. Carolyn Mary Padua, Assistant Professor at MES College Marampilly served as the resource person of the programme. The welcome address was delivered by Ms. Liya Justine, Head of the Postgraduate Department of English.

The workshop included a few activities related to listening and writing. The students were given an insight into the dimensions of research like selecting an appropriate topic, finding a research gap, formulating a suitable hypothesis, framing the research problem, identifying the primary and secondary texts, analysing a text based on a theoretical framework and the basics of MLA format. The resource person introduced the students to major literary theories like post-humanism, Marxism, feminism and postcolonialism. The workshop also covered a detailed analysis of the film Maheshinte Prathikaaram into which a few novel theories were applied which enlightened the students and gave them an idea about research and its application. The students were made aware of the ethical practices to be followed in research. Ms. Aamiya Sunil proposed the vote of thanks and gave feedback about the workshop.

Benefits in terms of learning/skill/knowledge obtained:

- A clear understanding of the MLA format
- Additional insights on application of theory to a text
- Deeper understanding of novel theories
- Writing and Listening skills developed through activities
- Ethical practices followed in research
- Tips to improve clarity
- Increase credibility of research by referring external sources
